Enrichment Course in Book Reviews

Rationale

Many aspiring writers get their first by line by writing a book review. Many successful writers continue to write book reviews throughout their careers. This course prepares students to excel at this genre of writing with the goal of having a book review pitch accepted for publication by the end of the course. We discuss the different types of book reviews, from the evaluative review to the round-up review to the review-essay. Students learn how to pitch a book review, how to read a book for the purposes of reviewing it, and how to conduct the outside research necessary for writing a strong review. Course readings include book reviews from a range of publications to show the different approaches to book reviewing. Guest speakers provide students with insight into how to launch a career as a reviewer and how to use book reviews to develop other writing projects.

Program Outcomes

- Demonstrate the knowledge and skills needed to effectively Review the Literature.
- Describe the fundamental concepts and rules of reading and writing that apply to business activities, the employment function, and academic writings.
- Demonstrate skills needed for reading, comprehending and preface writing.
- Communicate Reviews via written and oral presentations.
- Integrate learning from Reviews through teamwork, leadership and motivational skills to organizational scenarios and evaluate outcomes.
